Gardening

Light gardening means basic garden maintenance that helps keep the client’s home environment safe, accessible, and liveable. This may include lawn mowing, edging, light weeding, watering, raking leaves, sweeping outdoor pathways, and minor pruning where the work can be completed safely at ground level.

Heavy-duty gardening means major, high-risk, or specialist garden work that goes beyond basic maintenance. This includes tree removal, large branch cutting, stump grinding, landscaping, major clearing, heavy lifting, working at height, use of specialist machinery, or removal of large volumes of green waste. These tasks are not included in standard light gardening and may require a separate quote, approval, or referral to a qualified contractor.
